

Public Finance Director

London – competitive salary, benefits and bonus

Quayle Munro is a leading independent merchant bank with offices in Edinburgh, London and New York. The bank has four activities: corporate finance, public finance, fund management and principal investment. The Public Finance team has a distinguished record advising both private and public-sectors and specialises in the provision of project and funding advisory services mainly within Public Private Partnerships and the Higher and Further education sectors.

The Role

Quayle Munro is looking to expand its Public Finance business and is seeking a proven individual who will work out of its London office to drive the expansion.

This is a significant opportunity to join a company which is continually looking to develop and grow its business.

The role will centre on the origination of advisory assignments and the provision of financial advice to new clients, in addition to developing relationships with existing clients.

The Candidate

The successful candidate could come from a lending, investment or advisory background and must be able to demonstrate good commercial judgement and initiative, a proven ability in business origination, client and transaction management, a successful track record in advising public and private sectors, and excellent analytical and communications skills.

Should you wish to apply, please submit your CV with covering letter to Sue Carter, Human Resources , Quayle Munro Limited 8 Charlotte Square, Edinburgh, EH2 4DR; sue.carter@quaylemuro.com